

Ms. Prachi Patel ,
M.Sc. in Medical Technology
Assistant Professor, Smt. LP Institute of Allied Health Sciences & Technology, Bhaikaka University
Email: prachip@charutarhealth.org

Prachi Patel is a Medical Laboratory Technologist by training, and a teacher of pathology, microbiology & biochemistry by profession, with 3 years of experience and 2 year of research experience, working at various academic and administrative capacities at the institute.

She is pursuing her Ph.D. in Medical Laboratory Technology under the faculty of Allied health Sciences from Bhaikaka University, Karamsad. Apart From serving as an Assistant Professor, she is also a member of anti-ragging & feedback committee at Bhaikaka University. Member of Admissions committee, Course coordinator and Subject Coordinator of F. Y. BSc (Hons.) MT at the institute level. She is actively involved in all academic, administrative as well as research activities of the institute and also serving as mentor.

She has attended numerous workshops and conferences of the different fields of Allied health Sciences nationally.

Her area of Specialization is hematology, clinical pathology, medical microbiology and clinical biochemistry. Her research interest lies in the area of medical microbiology (molecular techniques, infection control & biofilms) and clinical pathology. She has published original research articles in the field of medical microbiology & pathology in peer reviewed, indexed and UGC care listed journal.

She was felicitated with the “Award for Young Teacher” at Indore Education Fest (September 2023) by Research Foundation of India.